

GRIEF AS A MYSTICAL JOURNEY

An experiential workshop for bereaved individuals
and bereavement professionals

"Pain that is not transformed is transmitted"
- Richard Rohr

If you or someone you know is mourning a death or a loss of any kind (including divorce, job loss, pet loss or any major transformational shift), please join us in a rare learning environment that provides healing tools not found in traditional counseling or support group settings.

Learn to:

- . Focus on internal transformation rather than on external events
- . Use creative rituals to help you move from pain to peace
- . Transmute trauma into new forms of love and spiritual awareness.

Saturday August 6, 2016, 1-5 pm

Facilitated by Terri Daniel, MA, CT, a hospice and hospital-trained clinical chaplain certified in death, dying and bereavement. Her unique perspective on birth, death and the journey of the soul helps the bereaved find meaning and healing through meditative and ritual practices that open a conduit to other dimensions. Terri's brand of "radical mysticism" incorporates elements of Buddhism, Shamanism, ancient pagan practices, Gnosticism and other spiritual traditions to break down limiting beliefs about trauma and forgiveness.
